European SME's have been going through quite some difficulties and faced a lot of challenges over the last years. Building on the successful visits to foster business cooperation carried out in Greece and Portugal last year, the Vice-President of the European Commission Antonio Tajani is keen to further assist SME's in Greece to successfully overcome current challenges. The business environment in Greece has undergone major changes and restructuring in the recent years and it now offers many business opportunities for companies.

As a result a new Business to Business event will be held in Athens on 11 March 2014

The B2B event aims to promote business partnerships and investments between Greek and international SME's active in sectors identified as key contributors to growth for the country

- * Agri-Food/Food Processing/Aquaculture
- * Biotech and Blue Biotech
- * Energy
- * ICT
- * Tourism

and Portugal last year, Vice President of the European Commission Antonio Tajani is now keen to contribute assisting SMEs in Campania to successfully overcome current difficulties.

Vice President Tajani of the European Commission has therefore joined forces with Mr. Waldoni, President of the Region of Campania to make European companies aware of existing business and investment opportunities in the area. To support this key priority, the regional government of Campania is organizing a conference in Naples with the objective of making European companies aware about local opportunities. At the same time a business-to-business forum will be set up to allow local enterprises to meet potential partners from Europe.

High potential sectors have been chosen as key (but not exhaustive) areas for the business to business meetings:

- Aerospace
- Cultural Heritage
- Eco Building
- Biotech
- Energy
- Transport and Logistics
- Automotive
- Agro-food
- Fashion
- Tourism
